

Brian B. Adams

Class of 1987

Columbia High School

Dr. Brian B. Adams, M.D., is currently an assistant professor in the Department of Dermatology at the University of Cincinnati while simultaneously serving as the Director of Dermatology at the local Veteran's Administration Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio. He complements these demanding duties by serving as a core member on the Institutional Review Board of Hilltop Research, also in Cincinnati.

After graduation from Columbia High School in 1987, where as an Honor student he was also Class Valedictorian, Dr. Adams proceeded to obtain a B.S. in 1991, in Environmental Biology at Yale College, where he graduated cum laude. From there, Dr. Adams continued his education graduating in 1995 from Yale University School of Medicine with his M.D. At each level of educational fulfillment Dr. Adams academic and leadership skills were recognized by numerous awards and elective offices.

From 1995 to 1999, Dr. Adams served as Intern, Resident and Chief Resident respectively in the Internal Medicine and Dermatology Departments at the University of Cincinnati. He has conducted and been involved in numerous research studies involving such topics as: Rett Syndrome and Cancer prevention(skin). He has been and is widely published with scores of articles being presented in various professional journals and magazines.

Dr. Adams, in addition to his professional responsibilities and activities, has found the time to participate and excel in one of his great avocational 'loves': competitive running. He is currently ranked ninth among male runners ages 25-30, in an Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana regional triangle. Dr. Adams also serves as an assistant coach to the Moeller High School cross-country and indoor track teams whose successes mirror his own achievements.

The East Greenbush Education Foundation extends its congratulations to Dr. Brian B. Adams and his wife Jilda, upon his induction into the Columbia High School Alumni Hall of Fame.
